

TUESDAY, SEPT. 26, 1892.

THE DAY'S COURSE.

Wife of "Sport on the Wave," at 8:15, leaving Wharf at 12 noon, by No. 11, A. B. B.

Rehearsal.

Whole Class at Lyceum at 7:30.

The Kaunakapili Sunday School's "Quarter" Exhibition.

The large native church, known as Kaunakapili, has, in addition to the Kaunakapili School regularly held in the church, a number of small affiliated educational schools. It is the custom for all these schools to meet together once every quarter, and give a kind of public exhibition. The regular quarterly meeting and exhibition of these schools took place last Sunday morning, in the upper room of the church.

Before the time appointed for beginning, the large room was comfortably filled with children, teachers, parents, friends, and strangers. After the opening exercises, not only the entire sitting accommodation was filled, but the standing space around the door was pretty well monopolized. Probably there were not less than 1,500 or 2,000 persons present. And yet so thoroughly in the building ventilated and so accessible to the gentlest breeze that no one felt the least discomfort. The exercises, which were of a delightful character, were not brought into use.

At half-past ten, Mr. A. L. Smith, the superintendent, called upon a class of small children to open the exercises by reciting the Lord's prayer in concert. This was followed by the whole company standing and joining in singing "Praise ye the Lord," led by the Reformatory School Brass Band. Next came some well rendered musical selections and spoken pieces by the Y. M. C. A. of Kaunakapili, which were creditably executed, in a similar strain, by the Kaunakapili School. "Come away to the Sabbath school," was sung by the audience, led by the Band. The schools of Puna, Kapaemahu and Kaunakapili contributed singing, recitations, and answers to questions. The Band, assisted by the audience, increased the variety by rendering "Hallelujah Chorus." The other schools participating in the day's proceedings, and whose exhibits were similar to those of the Kaunakapili, were the Industrial and Reformatory Schools, Maunaloa, Waikaloa, and the Kaunakapili, and the Kaunakapili, and the Kaunakapili. Singing "Praise ye the Lord" by the company, the benediction by Dr. Hyatt, and the national anthem by the Reformatory School Band, completed the programme.

The exercises lasted about two hours, and everything was so entertaining and glided along so smoothly, that the interest was maintained, without flagging, to the end. Scarcely an individual left until the parting benediction was pronounced. All taking part in it, well, extremely well; but for variety of matter and excellence of execution, the Maunaloa district school merits special mention.

One distinctive feature of this exhibition was the fact that it was Hawaiian. The pupils were Hawaiian and the teachers were Hawaiian. It is true, they have had and continue to have the guiding counsel and leading hand of Mr. H. Waterhouse and Mr. A. L. Smith. For ourselves, we feel constrained to record that we were pleased, even delighted, with everything we saw and heard. As class after class stepped forward to the platform, and as we listened to the plaintive singing, and saw, in some of the classes, the harmonious blending of the "seven ages," all manner in looks of serenity and satisfaction we felt an ardent and sincere wish that this people might live and multiply, and be a nation to the close of earth's history.

Travelled to Mr. Hallenbeck. On Sunday evening as announced, Mr. Hallenbeck preached his farewell sermon at Kaunakapili Church. Although the time fixed for the service was half-past 7, the people began to take their seats before 6, and by 7 o'clock the church was so crowded that there was no more room, and the service began. Still crowds came streaming along till even the steps were filled and all the way out into the street, and up to 8 o'clock the number of people coming away unable to get in was enough to have filled a second church as large as Kaunakapili.

The service was conducted by Mr. Hallenbeck, who, with his accustomed forcible eloquence, pointed out to the audience that this was the last time he would have an opportunity of urging on them the necessity for reformation—for a change of heart as well as change of life. The address was translated into Hawaiian by the Rev. A. O. Forbes. The united choirs from the different churches sang several beautiful hymns, and acted as a chorus to the solo singers. After the address practical testimonies of the value of Christianity were given by members of both Hawaiians and foreigners.

All the ministers, both Hawaiian and foreign, that could attend, were there. In the congregation were sailors and marines from the Alaska, soldiers, policemen, representatives of every class in our population, even to Portuguese and Chinese. At ten minutes past 9 the service was ended, and the usual after-meeting was held.

Mr. Hallenbeck's work amongst us will be seen to better advantage after his departure, and notwithstanding the many sneers that are heard it will be seen that many of his converts will stand firm and live better lives. That the reformation of even one is a public good will not be denied, and the rescue of one is worth all the trouble expended.

Mr. Hallenbeck will take with him the prayers and blessings of many families—we ought even say of the whole nation.

Eight dollars, eh?

It is suggested that the comet be photographed.

WERE you waked by the telephone to see the comet?

It is rumored that a large drayage business will shortly change hands.

WE regret to learn that Father Coan is seriously ill and by latest accounts not expected to live.

A FEW people find fault with the passport law because under it some people can get away without paying their debts. But the people who do get away, don't find fault with it.

THE comet may be seen from half past 4 till a quarter to 6. It is a brilliant and beautiful sight. Yesterday morning it seemed to be attended by an aurora. The tail of the comet is 12 to 15 degrees in length and very broad.

THE Mission Children's Society held their usual monthly meeting at Mrs. P. C. Jones' residence on Nuuanu Avenue. The customary musical and literary programme was gone through and everybody enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

WE hear that it is customary for certain restaurant-keepers to buy sausages from Chinese butchers and palm them off on their customers as the product of the German butchers. Such conduct is disgraceful.

CHIEF where credit is due. The shipping reporter of our daily contemporary can tell the number of deck passengers almost exactly without counting them. On the last trip of the Likiehe she took 276 deck passengers, and he reported the morning after she sailed 275. This is not the first time either he has been so exact.

DR. HAGAN states that the seaman, referred to in yesterday's issue, who was injured on Sunday is not likely to have any serious results attending it; but the cut was a frightful one—over two inches long and right down to the bone; luckily, the bone was not injured. He sewed and dressed the wound and everything will be all right in a little while. The man was perfectly sober at the time.

WE were shown on Saturday a large stone weighing about 15 lbs. which had been taken out of a bale of California hay. The Chinese hostiles who brought it into his master remarked, "Melican man no good," and in this case we fully agree with him. It is such things as these which ruin the export trade of any country and if we are to get 15 lbs. of stone in every bale of hay from California, there can be no doubt that the swindlers will lose their trade and it will go to some other port where the dealers are more honest.

THERE is now lying next to Mr. Lucas' Planing Mills, a specimen of the fire plug in use in San Francisco. It is far more ornamental in appearance than the style at present used here and the water can be turned on far quicker and easier. And as it will project out of the ground it can be painted white and so be easier seen at night. Another advantage is that the first cost is the only cost. It was selected and sent down by the Suez from California by Mr. Geo. Lucas, and the Superintendent of the Water Works has under consideration the advisability of introducing them here.

THE Kaunakapili Sunday School led by Hapa caused some amusement on Sunday at Kaunakapili Church, by the questions propounded and the answers given. For instance:—"Who was the first candidate for the legislature?" Ans.—"Moses, when he went up on the mountain to get the laws." "Did he receive a salute?" Ans.—"Yes, the thunder and lightning were heard and seen." "How long did the legislature (law-making) last?" Ans.—"40 days." "How many bills did it pass?" Ans.—"10, the commandments." "Who was the first King who received a letter from Heaven?" Ans.—"Balthazar." "What did he read?" Ans.—"Thou art weighed on the balance and found wanting," &c., &c.

MR. EDITOR:—From the Daily P. C. A. I learn that a certain "Oppressor" showed no signs of trembling at the service last Thursday evening. I may mistake the personal of the "Oppressor" referred to, but if it is the person I think it is he was quite shaky on his legs when I saw him due evidently to the influence of a certain "king" who is to be crowned Oct. 1st. I hasten to inform the P. C. A. that the "opposition" had nothing whatever to do with it.
